BDLive - The rand firmed along with other emerging market (EM) currencies after US employment data showed the country created fewer jobs than analysts expected.

The dollar weakened a little after data on Friday showed the US labour force grew by 559,000 in May versus an expected 650,000. The unemployment rate, however, dropped by a little more than expected to 5.8%. Another keenly watched measure, average hourly wages, rose 0.5% month-on-month. The dollar hit a multi-week high on Friday while European stocks, oil and gold steadied as markets braced for further signs the US economic recovery could drive inflation and an early withdrawal of Federal Reserve stimulus.

US treasury yields remained elevated after jumping overnight, while the dollar held onto its biggest gain since April, after better-than-expected employment data raised expectations for a strong reading for Friday's nonfarm payrolls.

BDLive - Gold prices slipped to a more than two-week low on Friday, weighed down by a stronger dollar and an uptick in bond yields after upbeat US economic data bolstered bets over possible tapering of stimulus measures by the Federal Reserve.

Spot gold slid 0.4% to $1,862.68/oz up to 2.30am GMT, having hit its lowest since May 19 at $1,855.59/oz earlier in the session. Prices have fallen more than 2% so far this week.

US gold futures dropped 0.5% at $1,864.10/oz.

"A much stronger dollar, rise in US Treasury yields along with a combination of generally overbought conditions in gold led to a rather decent sell-off," ED&F Man Capital Markets analyst Edward Meir said.

FarmFutures - Corn prices surged significantly higher Friday on the threat of hot, dry weather for the Midwest later this month, along with the prospect of declining yield potential in Brazil, which triggered a round of technical buying. July futures jumped 19 cents to $6.81, with September futures climbing 23.25 cents to $6.0550.

Corn basis bids fell 7 cents at an Ohio elevator on Friday and tilted 3 to 5 cents lower at three interior river terminals while holding steady at most other Midwestern locations today.

Old crop corn export sales slipped 5% for the week ending May 27, to 20.9 million bushels. New crop sales added another 17.3 million bushels, for a total of 38.2 million bushels. That was on the upper end of trade estimates, which ranged between 3.9 million and 51.2 million bushels. Cumulative sales for the 2020/21 marketing year are still well above last year's pace, with 2.018 billion bushels.

Corn export shipments fared better after trending 15% higher from a week ago and 9% above the prior four-week average, with 83.8 million bushels. China accounted for more than half of that total, with 44.3 million bushels. France's 2021 corn crop has started this season with stellar quality ratings, with 91% rated in good-to-excellent condition through May 31, per the country's farm office, FranceAgriMer.

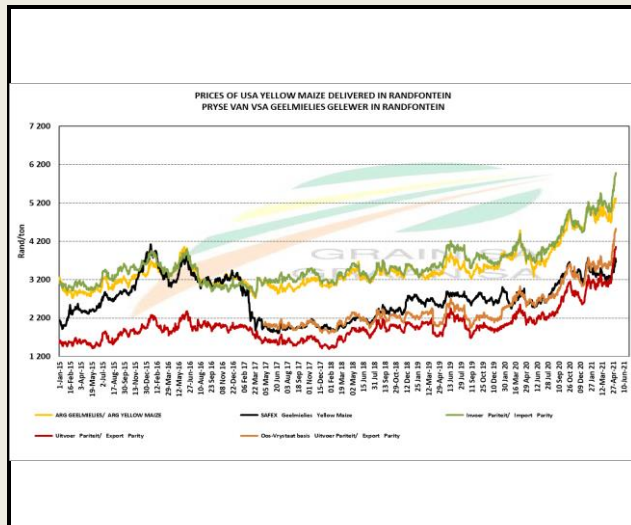

Preliminary volume estimates were for 330,611 contracts, dropping below Thursday's final count of 366,795.

FarmFutures - Wheat prices rose in tandem with other grains today, finishing Friday's session with strong gains after a round of technical buying. September Chicago SRW futures added 8.75 cents to $6.8925, September Kansas City HRW futures rose 9.25 cents to $6.4150, and September MGEX spring wheat futures climbed 40.25 cents to $8.23.

Old crop wheat exports were down noticeably from a week ago, with net reductions of 1.2 million bushels. New crop sales fared much better, with 14.6 million bushels, for a total of 13.4 million bushels. That was close to the middle of trade guesses, which ranged between 6.4 million and 22.0 million bushels. Cumulative totals for the 2020/21 marketing year have slipped slightly behind last year's pace, with 894.6 million bushels.

Wheat export shipments fell 56% below the prior four-week average, to 8.9 million bushels. Mexico topped all destinations, with 2.3 million bushels.

IHS Markit is now projecting 2021/22 all-wheat production in the United States will reach 1.924 billion bushels. Of that total, 1.3 billion bushels is the group's estimated production for the 2021/22 U.S. winter wheat crop.

FarmFutures - Soybean prices followed corn higher on the threat of widespread hot, dry weather expected across the central U.S. later this month, which spurred plenty of technical buying today. July futures jumped 33.25 cents to $15.8250, with August futures rising 31.25 cents to $15.3550.

Soybean basis bids were steady to mixed across the central U.S. Friday, moving as much as 10 cents higher at an Indiana processor while sinking as much as 5 cents lower at an Illinois river terminal today.

Old crop soybean exports only saw 654,000 bushels in sales last week, falling 82% below the prior four-week average. New crop sales added another 6.6 million bushels, bringing the total tally to 7.3 million bushels. That was on the lower end of trade estimates, which were predicting as much as 22.0 million bushels. Cumulative totals for the 2020/21 marketing year retain a commanding lead over last year's pace after reaching 2.112 billion bushels.

Soybean export shipments were disappointing, falling to a marketing-year low of just 8.1 million bushels. Mexico was the No. 1 destination, with 3.8 million bushels. Preliminary volume estimates were for 176,875 contracts, slipping slightly below Thursday's final count of 182,240.
