BDLive - The rand reached its best level in just over a week after US nonfarm payrolls missed the mark by more than half.

Data on Friday showed the US created just under 200,000 jobs in December from an expected 440,000. The number saw investors move away from the dollar as lower jobs numbers may see the US Federal Reserve slowing its stimulus tapering programme and the speed at which it raises rates this year. Treasuries are having their worst start to a year in 2022 and there's every prospect that Friday's US payrolls data will cause the selloff to accelerate.

Economists predict the jobs report will show employers added 447,000 workers in December, according to a Bloomberg survey, but the so-called whisper number has already jumped to 500,000. The increase was driven by Wednesday's consensus-busting ADP Research Institute data that showed US companies added the most jobs in seven months.

BDLive - Gold steadied on Friday ahead of US jobs data due later in the day, though the metal was set for its biggest weekly drop since late November, weighed down by firmer bond yields as traders braced for rate hikes by the Federal Reserve.

Spot gold was up 0.1% at $1,790.90/oz by 0341 GMT after two consecutive sessions of falls, cutting its weekly fall to about 2%. US gold futures were up 0.2% to $1,792.60.

"Markets are increasingly pricing in an aggressive Fed ... the whole prospect of Fed trying to control an inflation outbreak is obviously lifting yields," IG Markets analyst Kyle Rodda said, adding that bullion was losing some of its appeal on that basis.

FarmProgress - Corn prices pulled higher despite entering Friday's session with moderate losses. A round of technical buying ensued that was largely spurred by spillover strength from soybeans. March futures picked up 2.75 cents to $6.0650, while May futures added 3.5 cents to $6.08.

Corn basis bids were steady to weak on Friday after sliding 1 to 2 cents lower at two Midwestern ethanol plants and dropping 10 cents at an Illinois river terminal today.

Private exporters reported to USDA the sale of 7.0 million bushels of corn for delivery Mexico during the 2021/22 marketing year, which began September 1.

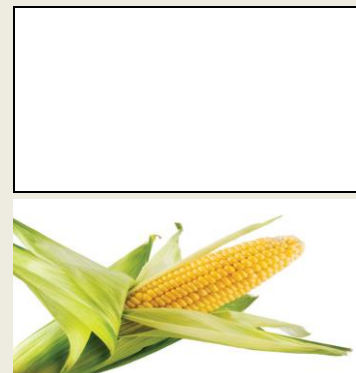

Ahead of the next World Agricultural Supply and Demand Estimates (WASDE) report from USDA, out January 12, analysts expect the agency to lower its assessment of 2021/22 U.S. ending corn stocks from 1.493 billion bushels in December down to 1.472 billion bushels. World ending stocks are also expected to face a modest decline, dropping to 11.971 billion bushels. Preliminary volume estimates were for 233,262 contracts, rising slightly above Thursday's final count of 228,684.

FarmProgress - Wheat prices found some much-needed forward momentum Friday after incurring significant losses over the past few days, although nearby CBOT contracts finished the week around 1.5% lower. Traders will spend early next week watching for updates to embattled acres in the Central Plains and squaring positions ahead of USDA's next supply and demand report. March Chicago SRW futures rose 14.5 cents to $7.6050, March Kansas City HRW futures added 7 cents to $7.7550, and March MGEX spring wheat futures inched 0.25 cents higher to $9.24.

Prior to the January WASDE report from USDA, out next Wednesday, analysts think the agency will show 2021/22 ending stocks for U.S. wheat trending 10 million bushels higher, moving from 598 million bushels in December up to 608 million bushels. World ending stocks are also expected to see a modest rise, moving to 10.239 billion bushels.

Analysts also weighed in on estimating U.S. winter wheat plantings for the 2021/22 season. The average trade estimate was 34.255 million acres, with individual guesses ranging between 33.400 million and 35.550 million acres.

FarmProgress - Soybean prices rose 1.5% on Friday after another round of technical buying, as traders can't shake worries about dry South American weather that more experts say will create significant production cuts this season. Spillover strength from soybean prices, which jumped 3% higher today, lent additional support. January futures climbed 24.25 cents to $14.0150, with March futures up 20.25 cents to $14.0750.

Soybean basis bids held steady across the central U.S. on Friday.

Private exporters reported to USDA the sale of 4.4 million bushels for delivery to unknown destinations during the 2022/23 marketing year, which begins September 1.

Prior to next Wednesday's WASDE report from USDA, analysts expect the agency to slightly raise its estimates for 2021/22 ending stocks for U.S. soybean stocks, trending from 340 million bushels in December up to 348 million bushels. World ending stocks are expected to face a modest decline, dropping to 3.672 billion bushels.
